The European Union Institute in Japan, Kyushu (EUIJ-Kyushu), officially launched in April 2011, is an academic institute comprised of faculty and staff from three universities--Kyushu University, Seinan Gakuin University, and Fukuoka Women's University—and supported by the European Union. Affiliates of our consortium include the Kyushu Society for EU Studies and l'Institut Franco-Japonais du Kyushu. EUIJ-Kyushu provides a centre for the coordination of all EU-related activities in the Kyushu region.

The goal of EUIJ-Kyushu is to develop a sustainable, high quality, and cost-effective platform, which brings together and builds upon existing expertise, to promote EU Studies and disseminate information about the EU in the Kyushu region. This goal is being realized by a targeted program of activities occurring within four areas: academic activities, outreach activities, academic exchange with the EU, and coordination with other institutes.

The EUIJ-Kyushu is supported administratively by the Kyushu University EU Centre.
